MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF ALFRED EWING

Well-Known Young Man About Town Died from Poison.
SUPPOSED TO BE SELF-ADMINISTERED
He Was Out Late Tuesday Night, and Returning at Early Hour, Went to Bed; Arose Shortly Afterwards, and After Being Out for a Time, Came Home, Spoke About Funeral Arrangements, and Within a Short Time Was Found Dead in Bed.

Albert L. Ewing, Jr., died very suddenly at 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning at his home over Kann's printing house, 307 Spruce street, and all indications point to death being caused by poison.

Not a little mystery is attached to Ewing's death. Coroner Longstreet believes it was the result of an overdose of opium, taken medicinally. Some of the circumstances, however, would raise a doubt as to this being the right explanation. When death occurred Ewing was lying alone in the same room with his wife.
Following the death of Ewing, a coroner's inquest was held at the home of the deceased, which was attended by only immediate friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will reside in a furnished home on South Lincoln avenue.

A Business Change.

The discriminating public have long been aware of the fact that F. B. Christian has stood head and shoulders above his competitors for providing high class Men's Furnishings to the well dressers of this city. He has likewise made a strong bid for the high class men's ready-made clothing patronage and kept a stock of clothing perfectly in touch with his fine furnishing trade. Everything in his stock was the best, the swiftest, the most perfect that could be procured in this country. On account of Mr. Christian's main interests which claim his whole attention, he has decided to go out of the clothing business and to that end has negotiated with Samter Brothers to buy the whole stock and fixtures. The necessary removing and arranging of stock is being pushed as fast as possible and it is calculated to place this stock on sale in a very short time. Samter Bros. intend to make the sale one long to be remembered by the public inasmuch as they will purchase the price lower than you have ever heard of. The announcement of the sale will appear shortly.
